Planning Policies

Any change to the Zoning By-law must conform to the policies of the Official Plan, London's long-range planning document. These lands are currently designated as

The Neighbourhood Commercial Node designation requires residential development above ground floor commercial uses. As no commercial component is proposed, an amendment to the 1989 Official Plan is required. Residential density in the Neighbourhood Commercial Node is determined by the Multi-family Medium and High Density Residential designations. The maximum density contemplated in the 1989 Official Plan in the Multi-Family, High Density Residential designation for sites outside of Central London is 150 units per hectare. Bonusing is required to achieve a density beyond this limit.

The subject lands are in the Neighbourhoods Place Types in The London Plan. The Neighbourhoods Place Type permits a broad range of housing types including stacked townhouses and low-rise apartment buildings, home occupations, group homes, small-scale community facilities, emergency care establishments, rooming houses, supervised correctional residences, mixed-use buildings and stand-alone retail, service, and office buildings. The London Plan contemplates apartment buildings and bonusing up to, but not exceeding a maximum of 6-storeys at this location. The proposed development would require an amendment to The London Plan for a building height beyond 6-storeys.
