

TIP SHEET: How to find the right job for you.

How to find the right job for you

Finding the right job or career can be life changing. However; figuring out what the right job is can be a challenge. Below are some tips on how to determine which career is right for you – whether you are just starting out or looking for a change.

What do you do for fun?

Think about how you like to spend your free time, your leisure time. Is it possible you can turn that hobby into a career?

Would you work for free?

Considering volunteering. Volunteering can not only uncover your passion but also strengths and transferable skills into the working environment.

What do you read?

Do you have a specific subject that you like reading about? This could provide some insight into an area of interest for you.

What don't you like to do?

Knowing what you don't want to do is just as important as knowing what you do want to do. If you know that you don't want to work in an office – day in and day out – maybe something in the outdoors is right for you. Look at what you consider your weaknesses and find the strength in them.

Take online assessments

There are a wealth of online career and strength assessments that are available to take – most of which are free – that will give you good food for thought when it comes to deciding on a career path.

Skills match

Is there a connection between what is required to do the job and the skills you have? How easily can you obtain training?
