Introduction

The Register of Cultural Heritage Resources is an essential resource used by the public and City staff to identify the cultural heritage status of properties in the City of London. The first City Council-adopted Inventory of Heritage Resources was created in 1991, and was compiled from previous inventories dating back to the 1970s. The Inventory of Heritage Resources was reviewed and revised in 1997 to include newly-annexed areas of the City of London. In 2005-2006, City Council adopted the revised Inventory of Heritage Resources. The Inventory of Heritage Resources (2006) was adopted in its entirety as the Register pursuant to Section 27 of the Ontario Heritage Act on March 26, 2007. Since 2007, City Council has removed and added properties to the Register by Council resolution.

The Register includes heritage listed properties (Section 27 of the Ontario Heritage Act), individually designated heritage properties (under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act), and properties designated as part of a Heritage Conservation District (under Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act).

All properties included on the Register are believed to have potential cultural heritage value or interest if their cultural heritage value or interest has not yet been recognized by their designation under the Ontario Heritage Act. Further research and evaluation may be required to comprehensively determine if a heritage listed property does or does not demonstrate sufficient cultural heritage value or interest to warrant conservation and designation pursuant to the Ontario Heritage Act.

Ontario Heritage Act

The Ontario Heritage Act enables municipalities within Ontario to protect properties of cultural heritage value or interest. The Register is a publically-accessible document of properties that are of recognized or potential cultural heritage value or interest. The Register includes heritage listed properties (Section 27 of the Ontario Heritage Act), individually designated heritage properties or properties protected by a Heritage Easement (under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act), and properties designated as part of a Heritage Conservation District (under Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act).

Individually Designated Heritage Property

Properties that are individually designated under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act have been evaluated and determined to meet one or more of the criteria of Ontario Regulation 9/06: Criteria for Determining Cultural Heritage Value or Interest. Each property designated under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act has an associated heritage designating by-law that helps to guide future change or alteration to the heritage designated property by identifying the heritage attributes of the property that are protected. The heritage designating by-law is registered on the title of the property. Properties that are designated pursuant to Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act may require Heritage Alteration Permit approval for alterations.

Heritage Conservation District Property

Properties within a Heritage Conservation District (HCD) are designated pursuant to Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act. A Heritage Conservation District is a geographically defined area within a municipality that is noted for its distinct heritage character. Each Heritage Conservation District within the City of London has a Plan to help manage and guide change within the area. Properties that are designated pursuant to Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act may require Heritage Alteration Permit approval for alterations.

Heritage Listed Property

In addition, Section 27(1.2) of the Ontario Heritage Act enables a municipal council to include properties that it believes to be of cultural heritage value or interest, but are not designated under the Ontario Heritage Act, on its Register. These properties are commonly referred to as “heritage listed properties.” To include a property on the Register, City Council must believe that a property has potential cultural heritage value or interest. Properties that are listed on the Register, but not designated under the Ontario Heritage Act, do not require Heritage Alteration Permit approval for alterations.

How is a property added to the Register?

To include a property on the Register, City Council, in consultation with the City’s municipal heritage committee, the Community Advisory Committee on Planning (CACP), formerly known as the London Advisory Committee on Heritage (LACH), must believe that the property has cultural heritage value or interest. The Ministry of Tourism, Culture and Sport (2016) notes that detailed research and evaluation of the property are not required to add it to a municipal Register. As of July 1, 2021, the Ontario Heritage Act requires that property owners be notified of their property being included on the Register, within 30 days after including the property on the Register.

Properties are added to the Register by resolution of City Council.

How is a property removed from the Register?

Should City Council no longer believe that a property is of potential cultural heritage value or interest, it may remove a property from its Register by resolution, following consultation with the Community Advisory Committee on Planning (CACP). An evaluation to determine that the property is not a significant cultural heritage resource, using the mandated criteria, may be required to remove a property from the Register.

Format of the Register

A brief explanation of the column headings in the Register of Cultural Heritage Resources.

Street Name The name of the street on which the subject property is located; separate column to assist in alphabetical sorting.

Address Primary municipal address assigned to the subject property. Note: alternate addresses also recorded for reference (see Alternate Address).

Year Built Approximate date of construction for the built heritage resource located on a subject property.

“p1881” – means the building or structure on the property is believed to have been constructed prior to the date specified

“c1867” – circa – means the building or structure on the property is believed to have been built around the date specified. A date range of +/- 10 years is generally accepted, but further research is required to confirm a precise date of construction.

Further research should be undertaken to confirm any dates of construction recorded in the Register.

Architectural Style Identification of the style, or stylistic influences, demonstrated in a subject property. Identification of architectural styles on the Register should be considered preliminary and may require further evaluation or consideration. A property may also demonstrate several different or a combination of architectural styles.

Part IV Designation Refers to a designation pursuant to Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act for an individual property.

Designating By-law Each individually designated heritage property has a by-law registered on its title which articulates its cultural heritage value and identifies the property’s heritage attributes.

Part V Designation/HCD Refers to a property’s designation as part of a Heritage Conservation District (HCD) pursuant to Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act.

Part IV Designated refers to a property individually designated pursuant to Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act. Each individually designated property has a heritage designating by-law registered on the title of the property. An individually designated property may include heritage attributes on the interior of a building or structure on the property and be eligible for a blue City of London Heritage Property plaque.

Part V Designated refers to a property designated as part of a Heritage Conservation District, pursuant to Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act. Each property within a Heritage Conservation District is a Protected Heritage Property.

Both refers to a property that is designated both individually, pursuant to Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act, and as part of a Heritage Conservation District, pursuant to Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act. A “double designated” property.

Alternate Address Records if a property has multiple municipal addresses. All municipal addresses listed separately to assist when searching for a specific property or address.

A date of designation will supersede a date on which a property was added to the Register. In the event of a “double designation” (a property designated under both Parts IV and V of the Ontario Heritage Act), only the earlier date will be recorded.

Concise Glossary of Architectural Styles

The identification of an architectural style for a property included within the Register is for general information purposes only. Upon closer examination or evaluation of a property, a different, variant, or combination architectural style(s) may be identified for a particular property. A property may also demonstrate several different, a combination, or influences of architectural styles.

Art Deco – Generally stresses verticality, a multiplicity of planes and angles, and decorative, flat surfaces. Typically built 1925-1940.

Art Moderne – Often distinguished by streamlined forms such as rounded corners, flat roofs, and curved bays giving a generally horizontal appearance to a building. Typically constructed about 1930-1945.

Arts & Crafts – Usually derived from the ideas and theories of William Morris and Philip Webb who emphasized the importance of using local materials and craftsmen, and often harkening back to historical periods. These buildings often show a careful attention to decorative details.

Beaux Arts – Based in formal rules of balance and symmetry, and using ancient Roman and Greek models as well as other Classical styles including the Italian and French Renaissance. Often highly decorative. Typically constructed 1900-1945.

Brutalist – A late Modern style in generally considered to be in reaction to the International Style; Béton brut (raw concrete). Typically constructed 1960-1970s.

Classical Revival – A reinterpretation of the architectural of ancient Greece and Rome, and its architectural orders, through Renaissance examples of the styles.

Colonial Revival – A reinterpretation of popular styles and forms of the, usually American, colonial period, in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries; popularized in the 1940s-1960s.

Collegiate Gothic – Commonly used for academic buildings and some other structures in the early twentieth century. Gothic Revival details, arched doorways and windows, often repetitive and can have symmetrical elements, and sometimes including steep gables or towers.

Craftsman – A common characteristic of this style is a pitched front roof extending over a verandah and concealing second storey living spaces. Sometimes referred to as “bungalow” in style but not always form.

Dutch Colonial – Characterized by a gambrel roof which often, but not always, extends over a front porch. Generally constructed before 1918.

Eastern Orthodox – A general term referring to an architectural expression of the Byzantine Empire. Sometimes characterized by onion-shaped domes.

Eclectic – Generally considered to be a variant on conventional or typical Victorian architectural tastes, reflecting a combination or influence of different architectural expression(s).

Edwardian – Like Victorian, a general term applied to buildings constructed during the reign of King Edward VII, 1901-1910, but generally extended to the end of World War I (1918). Typically, Edwardian buildings are red brick, solid and substantive, a prominent entrance, and a porch or verandah with Classically-inspired details.

Four Square – Typically a later variant after the Edwardian style, with generally fewer Classical references in details and a more robust form. Typically two or three bays, with a verandah often supported by brick piers across the front façade.

Georgian – Generally relating to the architectural style prevalent during the reigns of kings George I, George II, George III, and George IV (1714-1830), usually extending into the 1850s in a colonial context. Georgian buildings are typified by their balanced or symmetrical facades usually with a central doorway and multi-pane windows.

Georgian Revival – Typically considered to be part of the Period Revivals movement popular after World War II, the Georgian Revival looks back to the buildings of the Georgian period for architectural inspiration.

Gothic Revival – A popular nineteenth century architectural style for churches, and sometimes influenced domestic architecture. It is generally characterized by steeply pitched roofs, Gothic pointed windows and doorways, and decorative trim or tracery.

Italianate – A popular nineteenth century architectural style for domestic architecture. Italianate buildings are often tall and narrow (vertical emphasis), often feature rounded or segmental arched window and door openings, hipped roofs (often shallow), strongly accented corners, and cornice brackets which are often paired.

Mid-Century Modern – A design movement of the post-World War II period, which generally emphasize open floor plans and large windows. Typically constructed between 1945 and 1975.

Modern – A general architectural term applied to architecture of the Modern period.

Neo-Classical – Like Classical Revival, but the Neo-Classical style seeks architectural authority directly from the ancient world directly rather than through Renaissance interpretations of ancient buildings.

Ontario Cottage – A specific term within the City of London, referring to a centre hall plan cottage with a hipped roof and characteristically has a central gable above the front entry, typically with only an attic (single storey building). Variants can include three or five bays across the front façade.

Ontario Farmhouse – A specific term within the City of London, referring to a centre hall plan building with an end-gable roof and a central gable above the front entry, generally with a usable upper storey (one-and-a-half storey building). Variants can include three or five bays across the front façade.

Post Modern – A style after Modernism, often and generally drawing from recognizable architectural forms and details from different historical styles.

Queen Anne – A decorative variant on a general Victorian architectural style. Often but not exclusively characterized by irregular outlines and silhouettes, frequently with gables, two-storey bays, tall and decorated chimneys, and often including a variety of building materials.

Red Brick Commercial – A popular style for commercial buildings between 1890 and 1920. These buildings usually have stone lintels and sills, with square headed windows, and cornice detailing below the eaves or parapet. May also demonstrate architectural influences from other styles.

Regency – Generally considered to be a variant on the Georgian style, but typically with a hipped roof, long or narrow windows, and often including trellis-like support details on the verandah. Related to the styles of the Prince Regent (later King George IV) during his Regency from 1811 to 1820, usually extending later in a colonial context.

Renaissance Revival – A period revival style typically characterized by a study of architectural styles of the Renaissance, generally the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries in Italy. Often characterized by a reuse of Classical orders and rounded arches in a manner that is generally considered to be more influenced by regional variants (e.g. Flemish) than the Classical Revival or Neo-Classical styles.

Romanesque Revival – A period revival style popularized by Henry Hobson Richardson, sometimes referred to as “Richardsonian Romanesque,” if it demonstrates or reflects the work or ideas of architect Henry Hobson Richardson (1838-1886). Generally inspired by the vernacular style of the ancient Romans, Romanesque is typically characterized by rounded windows and doorways, often with rusticated stone surfaces, generally with massive and bulky features.

Second Empire – Referring to the Second French Empire (1852-1870) and its architectural style. Based in seventeenth century European styles, including the Baroque, generally recognized by the use of Mansard style roofs.

Shingle Style – Generally frame buildings that are generally clad in shingles, often with gable roofs.

Side Hall Plan (SHP) Cottage – Not a style per se, but a common historic form. A single storey building with its entry located to one side of the building. Similar to an Ontario Cottage, but does not contain the requisite central entry doorway or central gable peak.

Spanish Revival – A period revival, loosely reinterpreting the styles used during the Spanish colonial period in America. Typically characterized by the use of stucco walls, red tile roofs, columns, wrought-iron railings, and arches.

Stick Style – A variant of Victorian architecture where the underlying structure becomes part of the building’s expressive details, usually executed in wood.

Tudor Revival – A Period Revival of the architectural style the characterized the reign of Tudor monarchs in England during the sixteenth century. Typically includes steeply pitched roofs, casement windows with leaded glass, projecting second storeys, half timbering, and the Tudor arch.

Vernacular – A term which relies on the common architectural influences of a building’s period of construction; exhibiting local design characteristics and uses easily available building materials. May be influenced by, but not necessarily defined by, a particular architectural style. A building considered to be reflective of its time.

Victorian – A generic architectural term applied to buildings constructed in the popular styles during the reign of Queen Victoria (1837-1901). Variants on the Victorian style generally include, but are not limited to: Gothic Revival, Queen Anne, Shingle Style, Stick Style, and vernacular.

Wartime Housing – Generally referring to the style of housing promoted by the Federal government during and immediately following World War II, supported by the Veterans Land Act and the War Time Housing Corporation (later to become the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation). Often referred to as “Victory Housing.” Typically constructed 1940-1955.

Disclaimer for Inventory of Heritage Resources (2006)

The Register is a living document, meaning that that properties may be added to and removed by resolution of City Council.

The Inventory of Heritage Resources (2006) was a static document, recording the cultural heritage status of properties in the City of London at the time of the document's publication. This Register supersedes any information contained within the Inventory of Heritage Resources (2006).

Disclaimer for Property

The Register is based on real property, with the property included on the Register (not just the buildings). Properties, not buildings, are designated pursuant to the Ontario Heritage Act.

This may result in one property with multiple municipal addresses or heritage designating by-laws. For example, the Pump House at Springbank Park is located on the same piece of real property as Flint Cottage and Flint Shelter, all of which are designated under the Ontario Heritage Act by different heritage designating by-laws with multiple addresses associated.
